SYLLABUS
Revised August 2009

Course description: This course will continue to concentrate on the essentials of language needed for proficient communication and will include exercises in listening comprehension, speaking, writing, and reading. The prerequisite for German 102 is German 101. Like German 101, this course seeks to develop the four language skills in a cultural context with the goal of achieving a basic level of linguistic proficiency in German.

Objectives and goals: In order to develop communicative and cultural competence without de-emphasizing formal and structural patterns in the language, German 102 will

- occur in a low-anxiety, highly motivating environment offering students ample opportunity to practice the language,
- be instructed in the target language – models will be provided and translations will be avoided, and
- expose students to authentic materials and authentic language – students should not expect to comprehend every unfamiliar structure and vocabulary word in an authentic text.

You will become accustomed to managing your own learning by inducing grammar from many provided examples, taking risks with the language, and utilizing all resources at your disposal: the instructor; your textbook; and supplementary print, audio, and on-line materials.

Learning Outcomes

At the end of the course, each student should be able to perform the following tasks in German:

- To greet one another formally and informally.
- To inquire about another's well-being and to answer appropriately when asked about one's own well-being.

- To formulate simple questions and appropriate answers as well as formal and informal commands addressed to individuals and to a group.
- To speak and to write simple and compound sentences in the present, past, and future tenses, based on chapter topics and vocabulary.
- To recognize gender, number, and case (nominative, accusative, and dative) inflections.
- To discuss (in German and, in greater depth, in English) the similarities and differences of the German and American education systems and university culture.

Required Texts and Materials

- Lovik, Guy, and Chavez. Vorsprung. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Company, 2007. 2nd edition.
- Note: The textbook package contains an in-text, audio- program CD and an online Quia workbook. This online workbook serves as your self-guided tour through the material in the textbook. The assigned activities are required and may be repeated.

Grades

- Class participation: 10%
- Homework: 20%
- 4 Chapter exams: 40%
- Oral Midterm: 15%
- Oral Final Exam: 15%

Grading scale:

90-100 = A // 89.9-80 = B // 79.9-70 = C // 69.9-60 = D // 59.9 and below = F

Attendance policy: The University of Alabama at Birmingham recognizes that the academic success of individual students is related to their class attendance and participation. The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures complies with the official UAB Attendance and Excused Absence Policy for Undergraduate Programs and therefore allows, with anticipated proper official documentation, absences due to jury or military duty as well as absences due to participation in specific university-sponsored activities.

UAB Attendance and Excused Absence Policy for Undergraduate Programs:

http://www.app.uab.edu/policy_change.asp#Attendance%20and%20Excused%20Absence%20Policy

GN 101 is a collaborative class. All students and I will be working together and learning together. Regular attendance is necessary to build a successful collaborative learning atmosphere. Repeated absences, tardiness, passivity, and silence will be reflected in your course grade. To that end, in addition to the UAB Attendance Policy, the Attendance Policy of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures will be in effect and is as follows: 2% from the final grade will be deducted for each unexcused absence above 4, and more than 9 absences will result in an automatic "F."

Class participation: Participation will count for 10% of your grade. In addition to simply attending class, you will be graded on the following factors:

- Being alert, well-prepared, and respectful of the instructor and fellow students,
- Making positive contributions to the class, and
- Recycling concepts from previous chapters.

Homework will be assigned daily in the textbook (Lehrbuch) and/or in the online workbook (Arbeitsbuch). This work should be completed each day before you come to class. A foreign language is best learned with repetition and regular work each day rather than hurriedly just prior to an exam. When you complete your homework, make every effort to comprehend the information and make sense of it for yourself. If you have questions, bring these immediately to my attention, either in class or via e-mail.

To complete homework assignments properly, attend to the words lernen and schreiben. Lernen means “to study.” When you are assigned pages with grammar points to study, read these carefully, analyze the examples provided to see the new structure in use, and break them down so that they make sense to you. You do not need to complete any of the associated activities.

Schreiben means “to write.” Those activities assigned with the verb schreiben always need to be completed, either online or on a separate piece of paper to be turned in for correction.

Please note: All students must attend a minimum of two cultural events – at least one of which is related to German – in order to complete the homework component of the course. Attending Stammtisch (our German language table) twice is required and may be counted as one cultural event. The cultural credit received will be 2% of the final grade.

Cultural Event Report Guidelines

All students must attend a minimum of two (2) cultural events – at least one (1) of which is related to German – in order to complete the homework component of the course.

You only have five (5) days after the event to turn in your 1-page, double-spaced, typed, cultural event reports, no more. I strongly suggest that you do not wait until the last month of classes to attend events. This way you will have choice and options.

Each cultural event report must include, but is not limited to, the following elements:

- Title, date, and location of the event
- Duration of the event and duration of time you spent at the event
- Name of event organizer(s)
- Stated purpose of the event
- Your expectations before attending the event
- Your general impressions of the event
- An assessment of how the event represented concepts from the course, if at all

The above elements must be incorporated into complete, grammatically correct sentences. You may write in English, but do not submit a list of the above elements in place of a well-written report.

Mauerfall (9. November 1989) In preparation for our discussion of the twentieth anniversary of the Fall of the Berlin Wall, all students must view the films Das Leben der Anderen and Good Bye Lenin! before November 9, 2009. Both movies are available on the FLMS computers and to be checked out from the FLMS.

Exams must be taken on dates and at times indicated. There will be NO make-ups, except with a documented medical excuse and an official UAB excused absence.

Other class policies:

Please turn off your cell phone when in class and put it in your bag/purse. No use of cell phones is permitted in class. Laptop computers are only allowed for note taking.

UAB Honor Code: UAB expects all members of its academic community to function according to the highest ethical and professional standards. Academic misconduct undermines the purpose of education. Unacceptable behaviors such as abetting, cheating, plagiarism, fabrication, and misrepresentation are serious violations of the UAB Academic Honor Code and are punishable by a range of penalties. Any form of plagiarism or cheating in this class will result in serious consequences for your grade. For more information, please visit the UAB website: http://www.catalog.uab.edu/UAB-Catalog2004-2006/progress_toward_degree.pdf
