Art and Healing in Haití

presented by Dr. Emily Hanna, Birmingham Museum of Art Curator of the Arts of Africa and the Americas

Many Haitian rituals and religious practices originate from African cultures. Using examples from the Museum's collection of African art, Birmingham Museum of Art Curator Dr. Emily Hanna will explore connections between the two cultures. After the talk, guests will have the opportunity to explore the Museum's African galleries.

6:30–8:00
