Dear Educator,

For more than two decades, the United States Achievement Academy has provided national recognition and scholarship opportunities to deserving students for academic achievement. Since the outset of the National Awards Program, the response from educators across America has been phenomenal.

Educators understand that students are encouraged and motivated when they are recognized for academic excellence. Your nomination of medical professions students from Univ Of Alabama Birmingham ensures the publication of their biographies in the USAA Collegiate Yearbook and provides future educational scholarship opportunities.

The purpose of the National Collegiate Medical Professions Awards is to pay tribute to the achievement and accomplishments of your students. Your select winners will join others across America in being recognized nationally. They will be proud to see your name as the nominating educator listed in their published biographies. Here is how you may nominate your students:

1. Review your students using the NCMPA Standards for Selection (please see the enclosed brochure).
2. Nominate your medical professions students on the official NCMPA nomination form.
3. Mail your nominations to USAA in the postage paid business reply envelope by November 15, 2005.

Upon receipt of your nominations, students will be sent biography forms to complete and return to the Academy. Each student who returns his/her biography will be recognized in the USAA Collegiate Yearbook FREE OF CHARGE. Students will also receive a scholarship application, a congratulatory letter, and a news release to submit to the local media.

Scholarship opportunities are available to every student you nominate. The USAA Scholarship Selection Committee consists of educators representing all levels of education, and 250 cash grants are awarded to scholarship winners each year. Careful consideration is given to each student who returns his/her scholarship application.

On behalf of the United States Achievement Academy, thank you for your participation. The Academy looks forward to receiving your nominations for this year's outstanding medical professions students.

Cordially,

Dr. George Stevens
