

Faculty Positions in Immunology

The Department of Microbiology invites applications for multiple tenure track/tenured junior or senior faculty positions in Immunology. Successful candidates will have demonstrated records of originality and productivity in research and a strong interest in graduate and medical education. UAB Microbiology is a national leader in NIH research funding and offers a uniquely interactive research environment. Collaborations among basic science disciplines and between basic and clinical faculty are stimulated by multidisciplinary centers: Comprehensive Arthritis, Musculoskeletal and Autoimmunity Center, Comprehensive Cancer Center, Center for AIDS Research, Center for Clinical and Translational Sciences, Center for Structural Biology, Comprehensive Diabetes Center and a campus-wide Program in Immunology. State-of-the-art BSL3/ABSL3 containment facilities are available. UAB is one of the top clinical and research institutions in the nation, located in a beautiful, livable, and affordable city with many cultural and outdoor attractions.

Applicants may provide expertise in new or existing areas (<http://uab.edu/medicine/microbiology/research>). Investigators in the areas of mucosal immunology, immune system-microbiome interactions, host immunity to pathogenic microbes, developmental immunology, vaccines, and cancer immunology are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should invite three individuals who are familiar with their work and potential for success to send letters directly via email. Applicants can submit their CV, a 2-4 page summary of their research accomplishments and future plans, and the names and contact information of three references as a single pdf to: Frances Lund, Ph.D., c/o Kristina Sinclair, email: ksinc@uab.edu.

A pre-employment background investigation is performed on candidates for employment. UAB is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to fostering a diverse, equitable and family-friendly environment in which all faculty and staff can excel and achieve work/life balance irrespective of ethnicity, gender, faith, gender identity and expression as well as sexual orientation. UAB also encourages applications from veterans and individuals with disabilities.