The SimEducator II course is designed for all faculty and staff who have completed SimEducator I or participated in all four classes of the 2013 Summer Series sponsored by the Office of Interprofessional Simulation. This course is designed for individuals who regularly use simulation as a teaching tool and want to gain advanced knowledge in scenario design, debriefing strategies, confederate training, and current research in the field of simulation. Faculty and staff will work together during this half day course to come up with solutions to common issues in simulation, as well as participate in short didactic sessions and simulations.
