1. List the heterotrophic groups. How do these groups differ from one another?

2. List the ways organisms acquire nutrients

3. What is an evolutionary advantage of having extracellular digestion? What type of digestion do humans have?

4. Food is taken in through a process called ______________________. It is broken down through digestion, which works by ___________________________ (how are things broken down). After food is broken down it is ______________________ and lastly _______________________.

Digestive System: Mouth
List the parts of the mouth:

How do the salivary glands function in digestion?

What are the two types of salivary glands and how do they differ?
Where are salivary glands located?

Describe the process of digestion starting with ingestion (the mouth) and going through the esophagus.

How does food (bolus) move throughout the gastric tract?