Join us for Translational Science 2020

More than 1,100 trainees, researchers and federal officers are heading to the nation's capital next spring for Translational Science 2020! Join us April 14-17, 2020 at the Washington Marriott Wardman Park to learn about the latest research, and explore new opportunities for funding and collaboration. An informative education program and unique networking opportunities make this a can't-miss event.

Call for Abstracts Now Open

Abstract Deadline: Friday, December 13 <http://www.actscience.org/ts2020abstracts>

We're now accepting abstracts for Translational Science 2020! Share your original research, and help us create a meeting where people can enhance their personal development and learning process.

Burroughs Wellcome Fund Travel Award

Since 2009, the Burroughs Wellcome Fund has generously supported pre-doctoral trainees to take part in the Translational Science Annual Meeting. This grant is intended to support trainee travel to Translational Science 2020, April 14-17 in Washington, D.C. The Burroughs Wellcome Fund is an independent private foundation dedicated to advancing the biomedical sciences by supporting research and other scientific and educational activities. Within this broad mission, BWF has two primary goals:

- To help scientists early in their careers develop as early independent investigators
- To advance fields in the basic biomedical sciences that are undervalued or in need of particular encouragement

In order to be considered for a BWF Award, the primary author must be a trainee and upload a CV during the abstract submission process. Applicants that are not trainees or applications without CVs will not be considered. To apply, select the option labeled "Burroughs Wellcome" during the abstract submission process.
