

Clinical Trials Day is an annual opportunity to recognize the many individuals who make clinical trials possible, and to increase awareness of clinical research achievements and opportunities for collaboration. From those at the bench to those at the bedside, as well as the many who volunteer to take part in clinical studies, these individuals are #advancingdiscovery to bring about improved medical treatments for all. This event is hosted by the CCTS, Heersink School of Medicine, the O'Neal Comprehensive Cancer Center, and the Office of Research.

How to Participate

- 1) Download and print out a Clinical Trials Day sign from go.uab.edu/clinicaltrialsday.
- 2) Write your own Clinical Trials Day message.
- 3) Send us photos (CCTS@uab.edu) of yourself and/or your colleagues sharing your messages of celebration for Clinical Trials Day! We will feature these images on the CCTS Clinical Trials Day website.

Not sure what to say? Here are some ideas!

- Why are you proud to work in clinical trials?
- In what trial team do you work?
- What is the goal of the research you are conducting?

go.uab.edu/clinicaltrialsday

Want to share on social? use #clinicaltrialsday, #ccts, and #advancingdiscovery to tag us on social and join the national celebration!

Want to Join the In-Person Celebration?

- 1) Be sure to RSVP at go.uab.edu/clinicaltrialsday
- 2) Join us any time between 7:30-9:30am on Tuesday, May 20th at the Wallace Tumor Institute for breakfast, prizes, and more!