UAB Center for Community Outreach Development (CORD) Virtual Summer Programs Disclaimer:

Due to the COVID-19 Coronavirus, selected 2020 CORD Summer Programs are offered online, as instructor-guided, hands-on virtual programs. Registered students will receive a home-kit module complete with comprehensive instructions for activities through which their Instructor will guide them. We have made every effort to provide materials that are effective educational tools and safe when used as directed by the written instructions provided in the kit and by the Instructor during the online class. The registered student and his/her parent or guardian are responsible for ensuring that all materials provided in the kits are used as directed by the instructions. UAB is not responsible for the use or misuse of the materials, other than in strict accordance with the instructions provided. Parents are encouraged to review the materials in the kit upon receipt to determine if the presence or use of a material included in the kit could be harmful to the registered student or another member of the household (for example: induce an allergic reaction), and they are encouraged to immediately contact the Instructor or UAB CORD at the contact details provided in the kit. UAB CORD will use reasonable efforts to provide a substitute material, if they are available.
