

CCTS Engagement of Communities

Jeffery Walker, PhD, Domain Lead, Clifford Kennon, EdS, MPA, CPP, Program Director

The CCTS supports the development of authentic partnerships between researchers and the populations we serve. Through our Engagement of Communities domain, we provide learning and collaboration opportunities to a wide variety of community stakeholders. Our aims are to foster trust, explore and establish shared research goals, and speed the translation of knowledge into health improvements for all.

Community and Scientific Action Board

Opportunities

- Synergistic strategy available to investigators & teams
- Consultative structure to provide guidance to nascent projects
- Reduced burden and greater coordination in approaching community organizations and neighborhoods

Community Engaged Research

- CCTS Partner Network Pilot Program
- Community Health Innovation Awards
- Community Health Scholars Grant Program - Partnership with CSCH to advance scholar development through project development to advance CEnR/CPBR.

CCTS PARTNER NETWORK PILOT PROGRAM

Community Engagement Institute

- Community Engagement Institute (CEI) Symposium
- Community Engagement Institute (CEI) Perspectives
- CCTS Bioethics Forum

Learn more: uab.edu/ccts/community