

Dental Sealants

Applying dental sealants is a simple, painless process.

First, the tooth is thoroughly cleaned and dried to prepare for applying the sealant.

Next, a special gel prepares the surface, and the sealant material is brushed on. Then, a blue light is used to harden the sealant.

The sealant creates a strong shield over the tooth. The entire process usually takes just a few minutes per tooth without any pain and discomfort.