RCM & IT

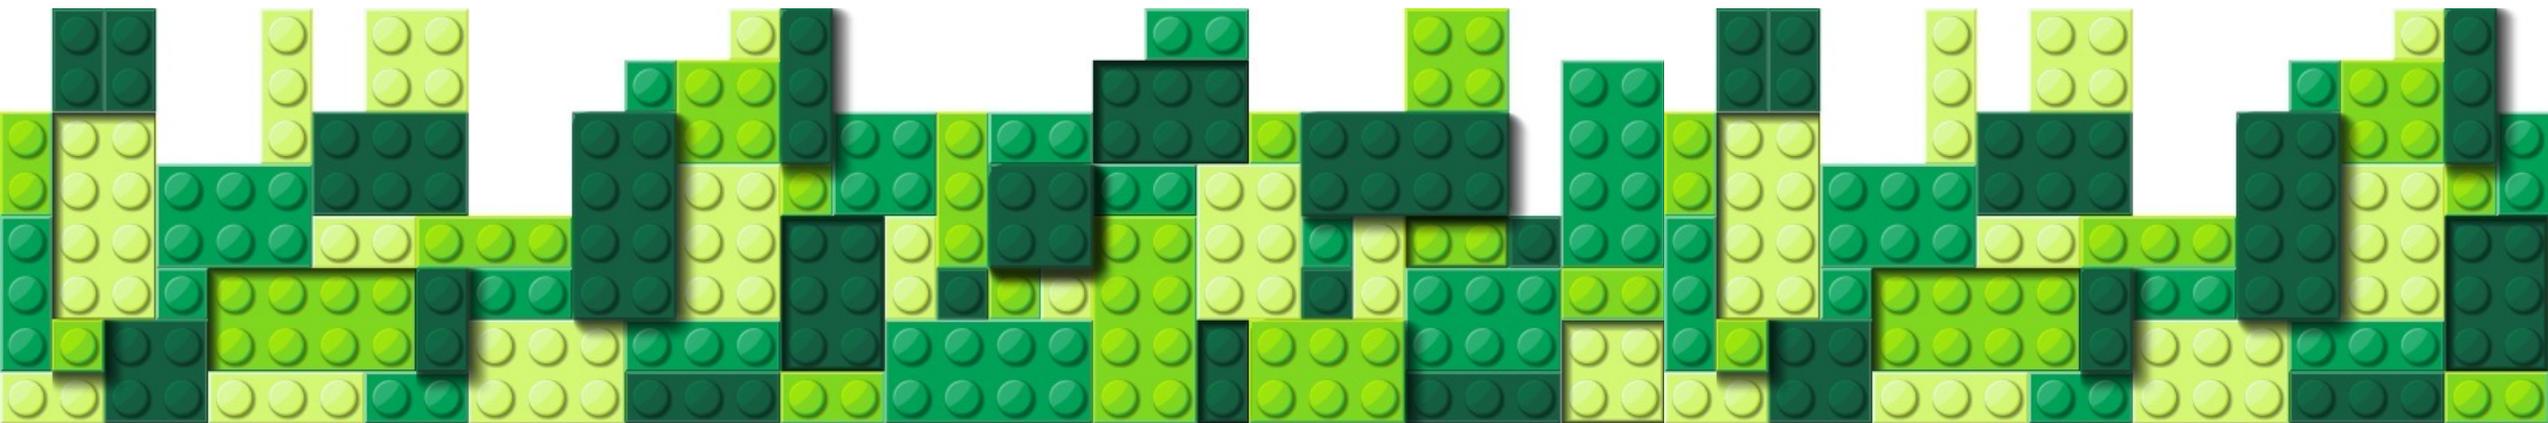

Dec. 7, 2022

Building the IT of the future

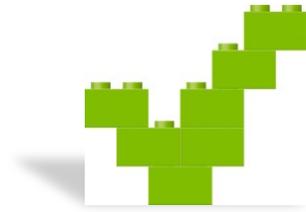

UAB is adopting the responsibility center management financial model, which gives each unit control over the income it generates and the expenses it incurs.

RCM gives us an opportunity to unite IT talent from across campus.

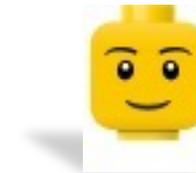

Every individual is important to the transition.

Guiding principles

We value every IT staff member and will strive for minimal disruption to employment as we treat everyone with respect.

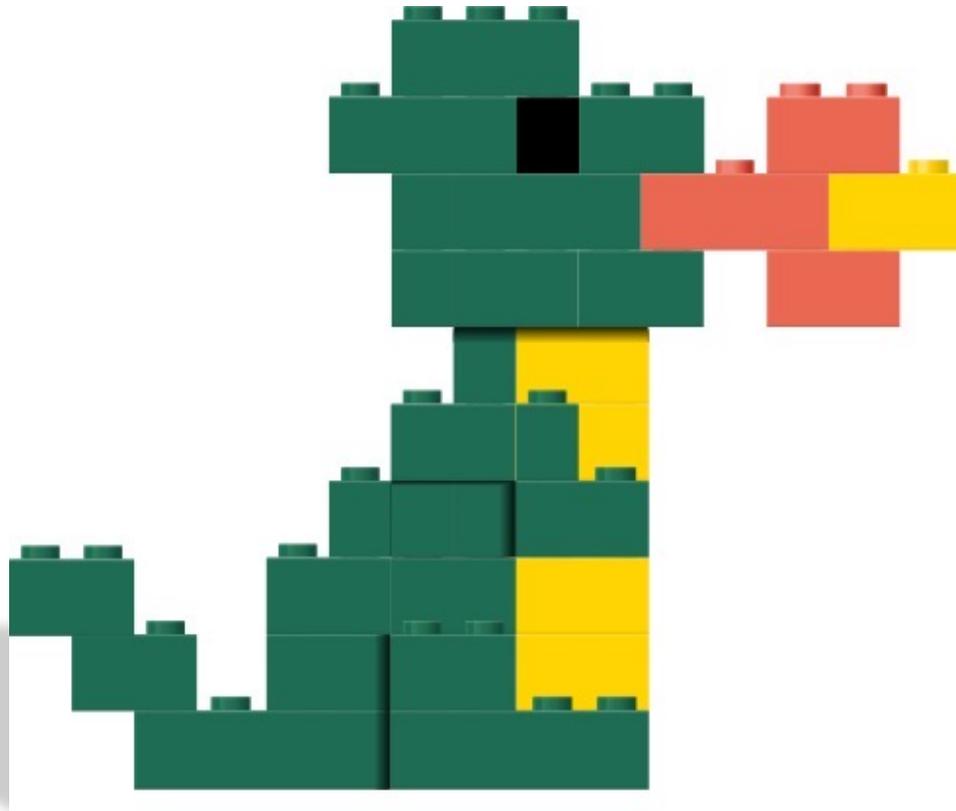

Our goal is to delight customers, with minimal disruption to IT services and support for faculty and staff.

We will rationalize IT services and support to avoid duplication.

A new UAB IT

At the end of this transition, we will have a new, blended IT organization aligned to UAB’s post-pandemic needs.

RCM transition of IT services

FY21

UAB Financial Affairs used this budget year for FY23 assessments because it was the most intact budget.

FY22

Preparation began for moving IT resources and services in FY23.

FY23

- Distributed IT units to be merged on rolling basis and prorated.
- Several IT services incorporated into budget model.
 - Services include IT admin fee; desktop services; infrastructure; telephone and network; and institutional software

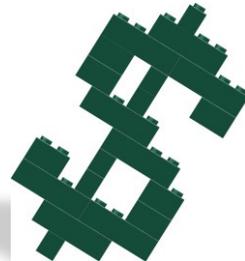

FY24

Costs for IT personnel will be included in assessments.

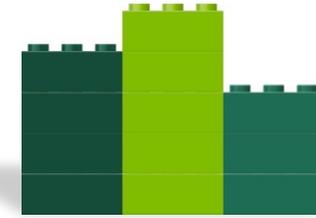

Benefits of RCM for IT

Increased data security

Reduced
IT costs

Enterprise-class
IT services
and support

All IT services will be included except for digital signs, cellular equipment and wireless services, and client computers.

Our pledge

We will live the IT values.

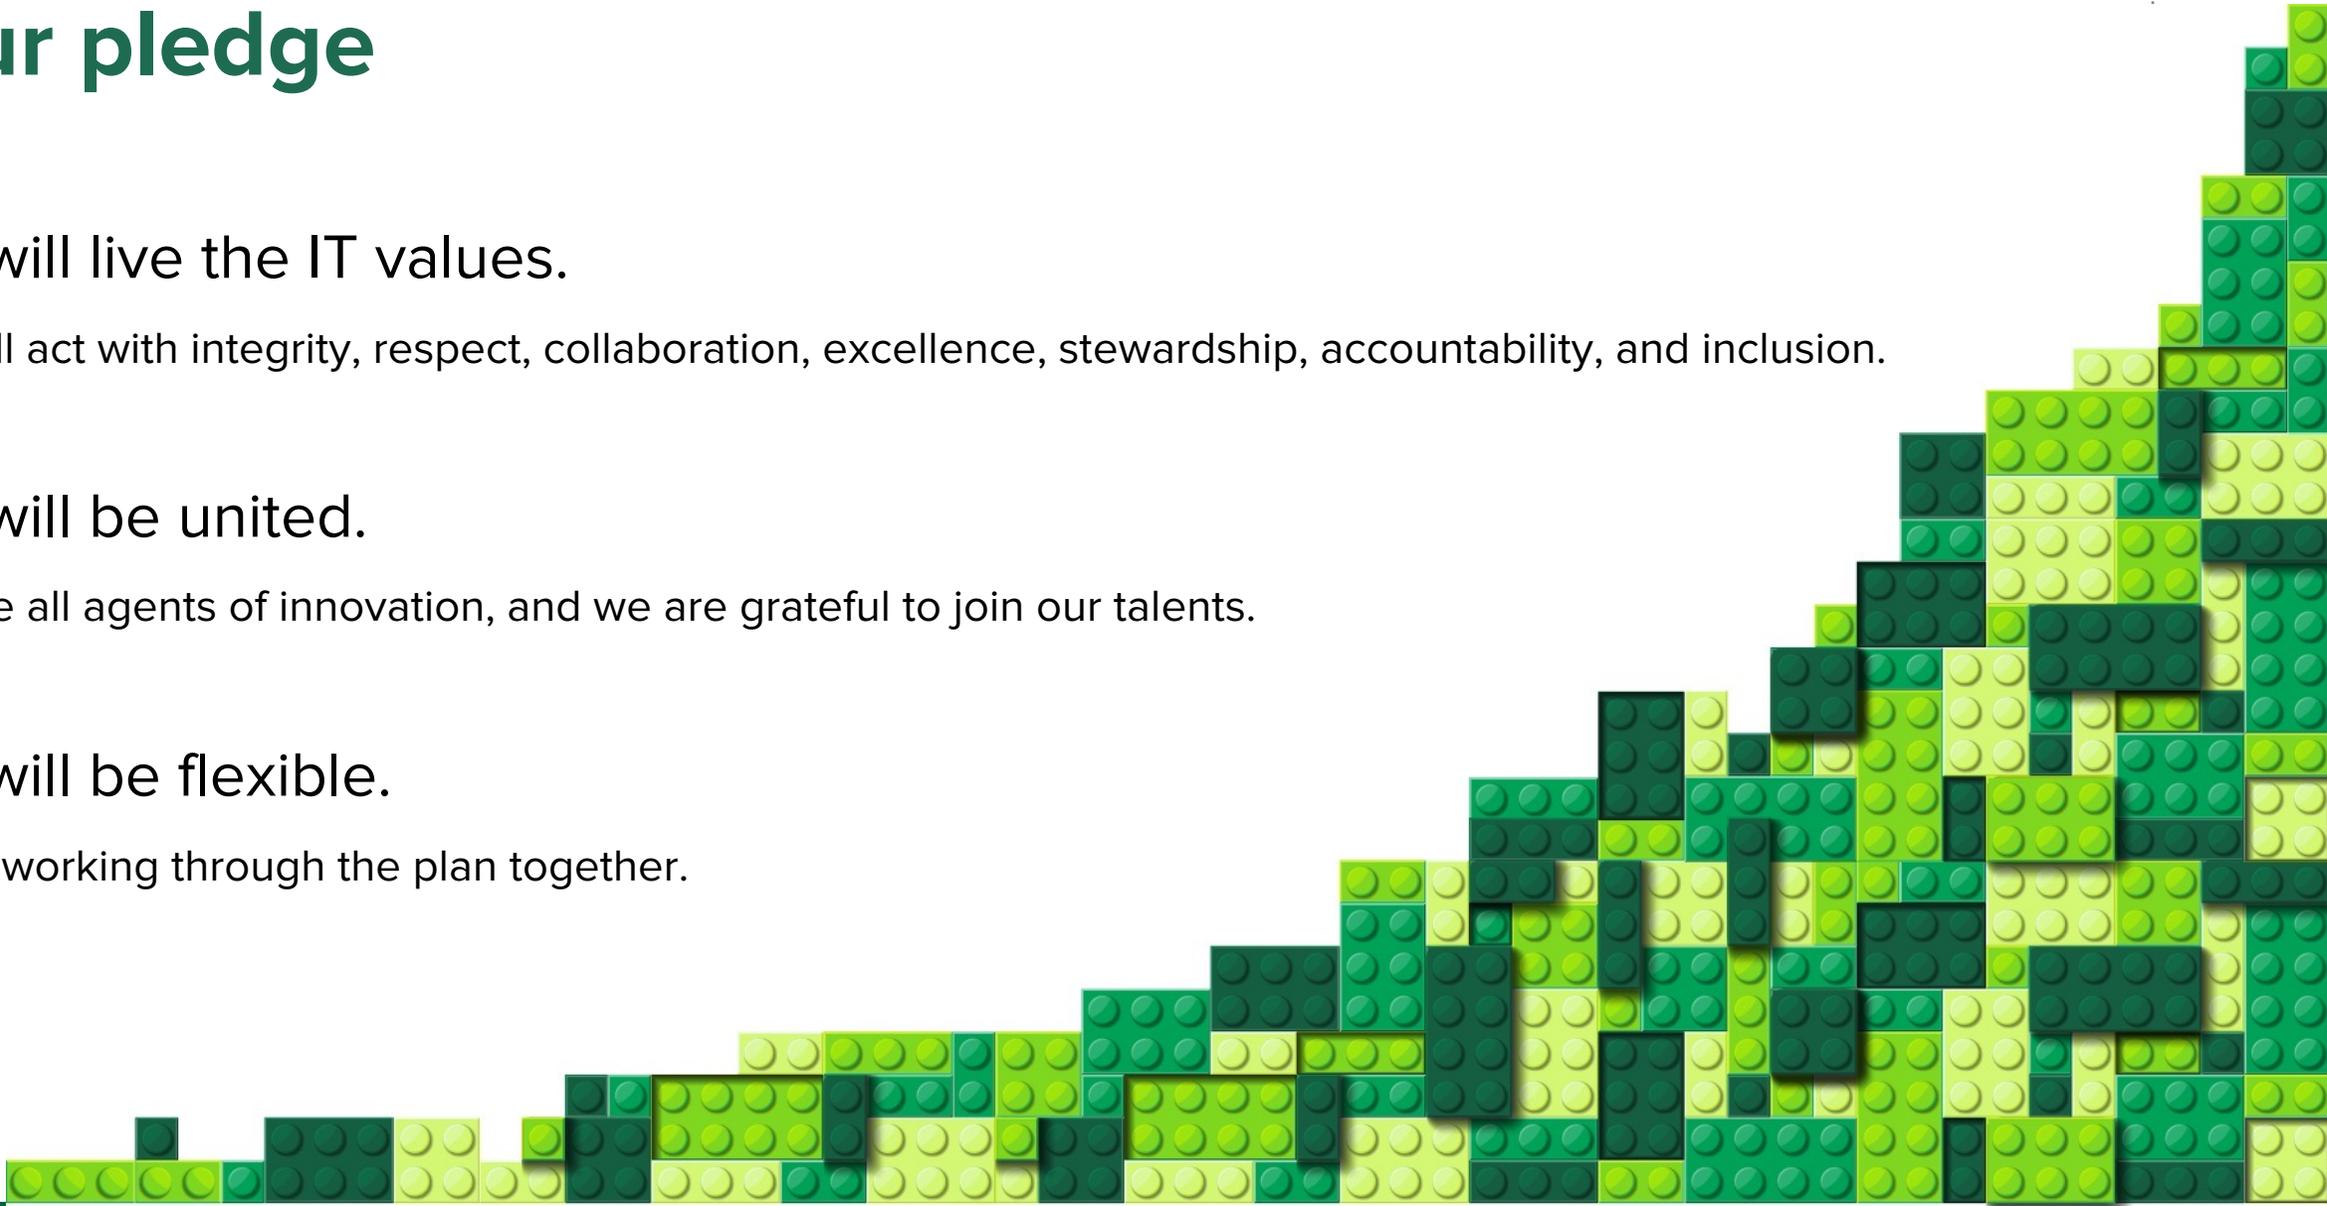

We will act with integrity, respect, collaboration, excellence, stewardship, accountability, and inclusion.

We will be united.

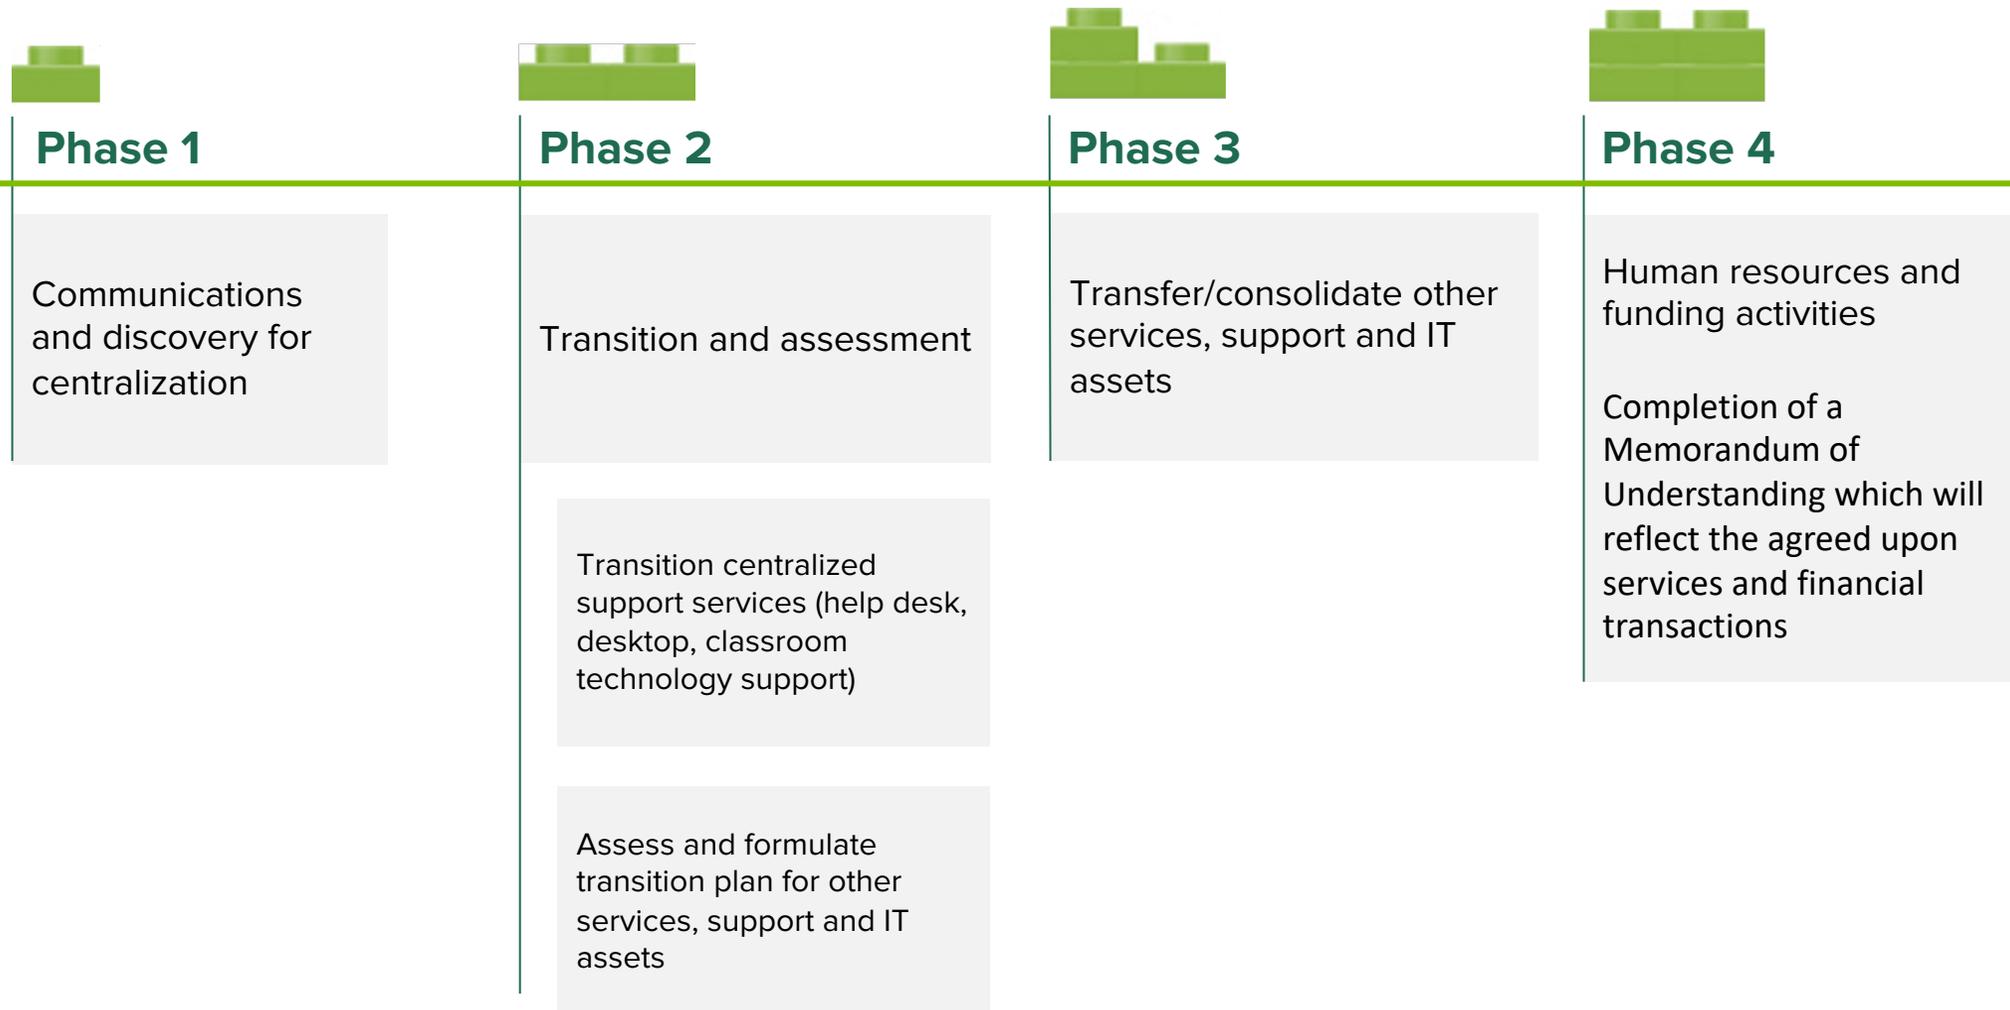

We are all agents of innovation, and we are grateful to join our talents.

We will be flexible.

We're working through the plan together.
