

Shark Tank

We invite you to participate in the first annual CRRT Academy Shark Tank! This new addition to the program is designed to encourage critical thinking, clinical research, and facilitate collaboration among colleagues with similar research interests. Each participant will be expected to submit an original research idea/proposal by 09/30/21 (which needs to be developed using the provided format via REDCap).

The proposals will be reviewed by a panel of judges from CRRT Academy Faculty. Four participants will be selected as finalists based on their proposals (notification will be sent out by 10/8/21). Finalists will then be granted a 15 minute zoom platform during the conference (5 minute presentation, 10 minute feedback and Q&A) to share their ideas with the panel of judges, as well as with colleagues.

Two winners will be selected from the four finalists, and will be presented with a small prize!

Through this event, we hope to foster a fun, creative, and collegial environment where we all feel safe to share and improve our research ideas. CRRT Academy Faculty will also facilitate pairing winners with mentors and/or collaborators to further develop and conduct the proposed research.
