IN MEMORY AND APPRECIATION OF DR. JULIUS N. HICKS

“Through his efforts in patient care, teaching, and scientific investigation, he set in motion processes that would carry us to a position of national recognition and prominence in otolaryngology.”

— Glenn E. Peters, MD

On September 6, 2006, in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary, Dr. and Mrs. Julius N. Hicks endowed the Ann B. and Julius N. Hicks Lectureship in Otolaryngology to help support education in Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery. Dr. Hicks directed the Division of Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery, from 1985 to 1992. He passed away on January 5, 2009, at the age of eighty.

Dr. Hicks earned his M.D. degree from Duke Medical School and completed his residency at Harvard University’s Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary. He joined the UAB faculty in 1960 and retired in 1992. “Dr. Hicks will always be remembered as the driving force behind our program,” said Glenn E. Peters, MD.

This lectureship is a tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Hicks in appreciation for all the personal and professional contributions they have made to the Division and to resident education. It continues to provide distinguished guests speakers from throughout the country to assist in the education of the residents.

We are honored to have Mrs. Hicks, her family, and friends continue to attend this important event as we remember Dr. Hicks.

IN APPRECIATION

David W. Kennedy, MD, FACS, FRCSI GUEST SPEAKER

David W. Kennedy, MD, is best known for pioneering endoscopic sinus surgery and minimally invasive endoscopic skull base surgery nationally and internationally. He has served as Chair of the Department of Otorhinolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery and Vice Dean at the University of Pennsylvania where he also continues clinical practice as Rhinology Professor. A Past President of the Academy, the American Rhinologic Society, the International Rhinologic Society and the ISIAN, he helped to establish the subspecialty by developing the first fellowship in rhinology and holding the first courses in endoscopic sinus surgery internationally. His research interests are the pathogenesis of chronic rhinosinusitis and continued development of minimally invasive skull base surgery.

Dr. Kennedy has been elected to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences. He is a prior recipient of the Board of Governors Practitioner Excellence Award and was awarded the 2010 National Physician of the Year for Clinical Excellence from Castle Connolly, Publishers of America's Top Doctors. He is Editor-in-Chief of the International Forum of Allergy and Rhinology and serves on the editorial boards of numerous other journals. He has published approximately 250 articles and chapters and received a number of international awards.
