Tuesday Tip

The Early Alert Gets the Worm

Faculty now have the ability to automatically generate Early Alerts to students based on logins to their classes in Canvas. The system allows instructors to send email notifications to students if they have not logged into their course in Canvas by a variable number of days set by the instructor. These notifications will be sent from the instructor's email address, and the message may be tailored as needed. Although not required, using this feature allows faculty to stay connected with students to improve course success rates. Click here for tutorials on setting-up Early Alerts in BlazerNET.

If you have questions or need assistance, email studentalert@uab.edu.
